

Questetra: Micro-blog has Installed for Accelerating Workflow

Newly Equipped Enterprise Social Network Service in Version 8 of BPM System

Kyoto, Japan -- July 1, 2011 -- Enterprise software developer Questetra Inc., will publish the new version 8.0 of the cloud-enabled business process management “Questetra BPM suite SaaS Edition” simultaneously worldwide on August 8. The new version will allow facilitating the processes more than ever with newly added “in-house tweet feature” that makes easier to discuss with other department of the company or to place a check on the workers upstream.

Screenshots: <http://store.questetra.com/en/info/collaborative-workflow-20110701.html>

Business process management system, today

Business Process Management (BPM) system is an application development environment that requires no programming knowledge. It has modeling feature of business workflow as well as monitoring feature of progress.

For

- Companies which want to achieve an internal controlled workflow
- Companies wishing to promote a paperless work environment and telecommuting environment
- Companies want to make use of records of operating procedures on analysis on orders and miss orders
- Companies want to prevent business stagnation by monitoring business progress in real-time

Effects

- Can standardize the information of business flow and transfer
- Can clarify business rules as split conditions or allocate conditions
- Can always overlook the past work history
- Can discover the waste of rework and inefficiencies

Questetra BPM Suite SaaS Edition

Questetra BPM Suite SaaS Edition is a cloud-enabled business process management system, which won “Cool Vendor 2010” prize, and every its features, Workflow function, Modeling function and Monitoring function can be used On-line. It has features of Lightweight modeling that designing Process Model to operation can be completed in two hours and Google Apps Integration, and can start any time with more than 400 business model templates. Free Trial: <http://store.questetra.com/en/trial/>

Micro-blogging in the enterprise, today

Enterprise Micro-blog is a communication environment in an organization that staff can freely post short sentences. Recently, an open micro-blog Twitter and Social Networking Service spread so explosively, that many companies put micro-blogging to practical use in communicating inside. Enterprise Social Networking Service brings active info exchange beyond departments and workers share their ideas and feelings. There are many products provided, such as Yammer (Yammer, Inc.), Jive (Jive Software), Chatter (Salesforce.com), Sales OnDemand (SAP), Lotus Connections (IBM).

Questetra BPM Suite SaaS Edition Version 8

Questetra BPM Suite SaaS Edition version 8 will be released on August 8, 2011, with "Questetra Feed", which is a standard equipment enterprise micro-blogging combined to workflow. And also be enhanced in a variety of its functions.

Enterprise micro-blogging combined to workflow: "Questetra Feed"

Workers are able to "Tweet" which tied with individual Process ID easily. They will be able to efficiently process the work through the workflow by activating communications such as the idea outgoing beyond the divisions and teams, advices and suggestions, confirmation of personnel working in the upstream, prior negotiations to the settlement. And in addition "Visualization of progress" and "Accelerating the improvement cycle" is promoted because progress of work colleagues or the workflow designer's improving policy are indicated.

SAML Single Sign-On

Supports single sign-on with SAML 2.0

Process modeler

Easier designing Web forms, less stress on browser when Data item increases or Model becomes huge

Search Conditions

More free to set a condition in searching business process, and free setting format for search result

Comments from Genichi IMAMURA, CEO

"Often in cases, we use Collaboration tool like internal twitter to open the company. However, it is essential that workflow and collaboration features get together, for example, consolidating ideas and knowledge instantly to deal with complainant. Questetra continuously suggest smooth business process environment with enhancement on Collaboration features."

Questetra

Questetra, Inc. is a software development company established in April 2008, located in Kyoto, JAPAN. Questetra's mission is to optimize human tasks around the world. <http://www.questetra.com/>

Contact Info

Hirotaika NISHI / Akiko HATTORI, Customer Service
pr@questetra.com +81-75-205-5007